

“Living Root Bridges”

In northern India, in the forests of Meghalaya, people don't build bridges—they grow them. By weaving together the living roots of trees, they create organic bonds that strengthen over time, thereby uniting nature and enabling people to connect.

Through his travels and his Vietnamese roots, Brotha Lok draws inspiration from this art of patience and cultural fusion. He weaves his own invisible bridges, uniting the shores of the past and the present, of Asia and the West. At the heart of this project, the voice of singer Minh seals this union, bringing the soul and nostalgia of Nhạc Vang.

Together, they bring together the legacy of Vietnamese folk music and the energy of hip-hop to create music where cultures intertwine and form a single, unified whole that Brotha Lok calls “Neo Nhạc Vang.”
